

Tutor.com Learning Suite for Libraries

A Service of The Princeton Review

With the right tools, public libraries flourish into bustling centers of development and growth for curious, engaged learners.

Education Affects Everyone in Your Community

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, individuals who have completed a Bachelor's degree earn nearly 70% more on average than those with only a high school diploma.* Communities with lower rates of educational attainment have lower average income levels and tax bases, which can have a direct effect on the quality of life within a community. Yet, those most in need of educational support often lack the resources needed to break the cycle.

Public Libraries Are the Great Equalizers

Libraries have long assumed the role of bridging the gap between the haves and have nots – with books, audio-visual materials, and free access to computers and the internet. In today's world, not everyone has access to the resources needed to make the college dream a reality. By providing equal access to the right tools, public libraries create communities of engaged learners who are supported and prepared for life's next big step.

Expanding Your Services to Build a Community of Learners

The Tutor.com Learning Suite for Libraries allows public libraries to offer an unparalleled resource to their communities. Merging our superior tutoring, professional WriteTutor coaching, proven test preparation, expert advice from The Princeton Review, and 24/7 self-study tools creates a powerful and personalized portal for college-bound students and their families.

By the Numbers

60+

academic, test prep and job search areas offered.

97%

would recommend Tutor.com to a friend.

2,200+

library locations provide access to Tutor.com.

17,689

hours that Tutor.com is available through most library partners each year.

15 million +

tutoring sessions provided since 2001.

www.tutor.com/libraries

contactsales@tutor.com | (917) 455-4617

*Bureau of Labor Statistics, Median weekly earnings by educational attainment in Q1 2016 for workers 25 years and older. Based on 2017 post-session surveys of students of Tutor.com. The Princeton Review is not affiliated with Princeton University.

Tutor.com Learning Suite for Libraries

Expanding Your Services to Build a Community of Learners

We help you help your patrons.

Complete schoolwork.

There are many reasons why students are unable to complete their homework: after-school job, limited parental support, lack of pre-requisite knowledge, etc. Tutor.com's on-demand, one-to-one tutoring provides individualized education opportunities historically available only to the privileged.

Lower the barriers and level the playing field.

Build skills.

Oftentimes, a student's struggles in one class can be traced back to a deficiency in skills from a prior class. Scaffolded learning and differentiation is not something easily practiced with a student to teacher ratio of 25:1. Tutor.com's skills drills, instructional videos and flashcards help students build skills.

Strengthen their foundation.

Write a paper.

Written communication skills are a must to succeed in school and be career-ready. Yet, writing assignments are a challenge for many students that take up a lot of their study time. Tutor.com's WriteTutor Drop-Off Reviews coach students to become better writers while giving them a time management tool.

Balance their workload.

Apply to college.

Being accepted into a best-fit college requires good grades and test scores, well-written essays, knowledge of the application process, financial aid, and more. Tutor.com includes The Princeton Review SAT®/ACT® Essentials with expert advice to help navigate these murky waters.

Guide them down the path to college.

Prepare for a test.

Your patrons' lives are full of high stakes tests – final exams, AP® Tests, ACT, SAT, state standardized tests, GED, Citizenship tests – all of which create anxiety if unprepared. Tutor.com's one-to-one tutoring and self-study tools help students learn what to expect and be more prepared for tests.

Change their life trajectories.

Find a job.

Finding a job in today's market is a lot different than 20 years ago – online applications, computer skills, new rules for résumés and cover letters. It can be confusing and daunting. Tutor.com's Adult Learning and Job Search Assistance helps today's job seekers increase their skill sets and find the best job for them.

Improve employment prospects.

SAT® is a trademark registered by the College Board, which is not affiliated with and does not endorse this product.
ACT® is a registered trademark of ACT, Inc. The Princeton Review is not affiliated with Princeton University.

